

The Formentera Council is joining Aliança Mar Blava's bid to stop Medsalt-2, a series of proposed acoustic surveys, by allowing islanders to voice opposition online.

Besides collecting comments on the project in person at the environment office, street-side canvassing has also been conducted at events like the recent half marathon and a stand on the administration's doorstep. From today, islanders can take to the Formentera Citizen Information Office's online platform (OVAC) to leave comments on the plan.

From the “Destacats” menu on the main page, visitors to the site will find the option to “Present comments on the MEDSALT-2 acoustic survey project” (Presentació al·legacions al projecte de sondejos acústics MEDSALT-2).

Clicking on it will lead them to page where their comment can be signed and sent. The page also features information about the project and details about the online comments process.

Given the potentially devastating repercussions the project stands to have on our coasts, the Council urges broad support of Aliança Mar Blava's effort to stop it.
